

Why are there different prices for the same product?

The same product can be sold by different sellers.

Sellers can list their offer against a product while keeping the price competitive.

For example: One seller might sell an item at 100 EGP, while another would sell it at 110 EGP. A list of offers can be seen below each product.

You are free to choose whichever offer suits you best.